Iskandar's pool and main house

Only 20 minutes drive north of Seminyak, the luxury villas Iskandar and Atacaya lie side by side along the banks of a river shrouded in jungle with nothing but birdsong and the flowing river to break up the peace and quiet. Contemporary design in white stone is the dominant theme at the five-bedroom Villa Iskandar, with all rooms bar one sitting on the same level next to an infinity pool; room five is located rather dreamily one floor down looking out over the river. Villa Atacaya has all of its four bedrooms located over three levels and is designed in wood with a Chinoiserie theme which is felt throughout in the antiques and artworks. Both villas are bought together by a holy spring that is located on the property and flows to form water features such as ponds and rivulets that grace each villa on their way down to the river. The villas, of course, come fully staffed and with so many rooms on offer they are, not surprisingly, an extremely popular venue for weddings and large events. So popular in fact that they have recently installed a purpose-built wedding terrace at the back of the property where guests can mingle under the shade of a centuries' old banyan tree whilst being waited on as the happy couple take their vows. This is versatility meets luxury par excellence.
